THE WATERBURY BLANK BOOK WORKS CO.
WATERBURY, CONNECTICUT

Publisher's Notice

THE publishing of this book is the result of a wish I have long entertained of placing in permanent form and thus preserving the rapidly disappearing inscriptions upon the tombstones of my native town.

Mr. Charles Thomas Payne, of New York City, a descendant of a number of the families who founded the Town of Litchfield, cordially seconded my desires, and spent several summers transcribing them. This he has faithfully done for all prior to 1900, and many later inscriptions have been gathered.

I am pleased to acknowledge the hearty response to my circular for subscribers.

The cuts were photographed by Sherry and Karl, and engraved by the Hartford Engraving Co. The mechanical work was done by the Waterbury Blank Book Mfg. Co., and it is all as nearly possible a local undertaking.

With a hope that it will be a valuable addition to our Town's history, and of interest to all it is now presented to the public.

Preface

HIS book is merely a collection of the inscriptions on gravestones and monuments in all the cemeteries of that area comprising what was Litchfield Town before 1859. In that year nearly half of the Township, then known as the Society or Parish of the South Farms, was formed into the Town of Morris. The purpose of such a book is necessarily directed toward increasing knowledge of the past of Litchfield. So from the standpoint of the historian or the genealogist, any comprehensive data of this sort must include what may be known of Morris as well as Litchfield as it is now. The inscriptions contained here are believed to be complete to the year 1900, and a number have been added from tombs and monuments erected since that date.

Before each list of inscriptions found in the several graveyards I have inserted something of their history; and nowhere is the quaintness of old New England life better shown than in these dealings of man concerning his dead.

Enough has been said in other books, of the good and the great who lie sleeping here; they need not my hand to point their names or celebrate their virtues.

To Dwight Canfield Kilbourn, Esq., I confess my deep obligation; and credit is due him not only for publishing this book but for many suggestions which I have followed in its preparation.

West Burying Ground

This is the earliest of the burial places in Litchfield, and its establishment was nearly contemporaneous with the founding of the Town. The first notice of it appears in Volume One of the Land Records, as follows:

"An acompt of the High Ways In Litchfield In 1723. . . . the 2^d high Way Runing East and West between Samuel Smedly his home Lott and the Widow allens home Lott of twenty eight Rods in bredth Sixty Rods West and then is twelue Rods Wide down to the swamp and then is laid out but six rods Wide thorou the swamp Which highway runs on the West side of the letle plain buting north upon Land Laid out to John Gay to make up the fifteen acres for his home Lott and so continuel a West Line until it comes to the swamp or flooded Lands and all the Land upon the letele playn South of said highway to the swamp or flooded land which is not yet Laid out is Resarued and Laid out for a burying place Which highway at the West End of the litle plain or burying place runs six Rods Wide throro the swamp and across the hill called buck's Neak With the same corce and bredth until it comes to the pine plain Which high Way is Called by the name of Middle Street."

Here were interred nearly all of the pioneers of Litchfield, and the yard remained the principal burial ground of the Town until the Revolution.

Early in the Nineteenth Century a large tract was added on the western side.

Beneath this stone lies children five
Endearing objects when alive
Though long in silence here
they've lain
They certain will revive again

At that blest hour may they be found
Clad in Christ's vestments all divine
Rising triumphant from the ground
May they like constellations shine

His God he served with pious zeal
The sacred dome was his delight
Far distant from that holy hill
Has took his everlasting flight.

Composed by himself.

So here I leave this earthly clay
And fly beyond ethereal blue
Unchained into eternal day
To sing y^e praise of God anew.

Could the tears of thy parents, the sisters who shared
All thy heart, and our hopes, thy life but have spared.
In vain, for death's signet sat pale on thy brow
And their hopes one by one fell like leaves from the bough
Thou hast passed from our eyes like a bright summer cloud
From thy brief happy day from thy home to the shroud.

East Burying Ground

This has become the largest of the cemeteries in the township, although it was the third one to be established, and was at first, as it noted below, a part of the highway set apart for the purpose. It lies half a mile east of the Court-house. The following record in the first town book is of interest:

"Sept 26, 1754. . . . At the same Meeting Mess^{rs} Samuel Colver Joshua Garritt & Edward Phelps were chosen com^{tee} to lay out a Burying Place in the East Side of the Town where & how much they shall think proper."

The laying out of this ground is recorded in the land records under date of Jan. 12, 1755:

"Whereas the town of Litchfield did at their annual Meeting choose and appoint us the subscribers to lay out some land in some of our Highways suitable for a burying Place pursuant to the abovesaid vote of the Town We have laid out one Acre wanting sixteen Rods upon the Plain upon the west side of the Mill River upon the North Side of the Path that leads to Chestnut Hill Beginning at a Heap of Stones about fifteen Rods West from said River from thence running West twelve Rods to a Maple Staddle with stones about it thence North twelve Rods to a Heap of Stones then East twelve Rods then a straight Line to the first Bounds and Buts North upon James Kilbourn's Pike Lot the same is to lye & remain for the Use of a burying Place laid out & bounded upon the Tenth Day of January 1755.

Joshua Garritt
Samuel Colver
Edward Phelps Com^{tee}"

Dec. 15. 1767. "Voted That Timothy Marsh have the use and improvement of the burying place near the grist mill belonging to Col^l Eben Marsh during the towns pleasure."

EAST CEMETERY—NEW PART

In 1837 the yard was enlarged upon its western side by an addition of sixteen rods. The next year further extension was made on the northern side, and the town voted a part of the highway for the same purpose. The stone wall in front of the ground on East Street was built about 1850 by subscription.

Within fifteen years a corporation known as the Litchfield Cemetery Association has purchased a tract of land between the ancient yard and Torrington Road and has laid it out with much care. Many fine monuments have been erected upon the new ground.

In the southeast corner of the old burying yard lie a great number of Revolutionary soldiers who died during the war, and were buried here without any distinguishing marks.

BANTAM

On Church Hill, east of the village of Bantam, lies the newest of the Litchfield burying grounds. At a town meeting on the twentieth of November, 1805, a petition of fifty-eight citizens "residing in the western and Southwestern Part of said Litchfield" was offered, desiring forty dollars wherewith to purchase a piece of ground near the new church for a burying yard. This was granted, and by a deed on page sixty of the twenty second volume of Litchfield Land Records, the land was sold to the selectmen of Litchfield by the historic Colonel Benjamin Tallmadge.

In 1865, the selectmen added to the yard a little more than half an acre on the west, and a strip about two rods wide on the southern side, in area a quarter of an acre. A wall was erected in 1869 along the road front of the yard, built of split stone from Mine Hill. In doing this the selectmen added somewhat to the grounds by encroaching upon the highway.

NORTHFIELD.

On the sixth of May, 1795, John Humaston, out of the respect and good-will he bore to his fellow residents in the Church Society of Northfield, deeded to the Society half an acre of land lying south of his residence, about half a mile east of the church; reserving to himself, his "heirs and assigns forever the right of feeding 5^d Ground." This tract has been added to twice, and a wall of split stone has been built in front of it along the highway.

MILTON

A thorough search of the land and town records reveals no definite clew toward determining when this burying ground was first consecrated to the dead, but the dates on the oldest stones would indicate that it was near the Revolutionary period.

On July fifth, 1813, the selectmen of Litchfield bought half an acre of David Welch from the south part of his farm for a burying ground, but this was very clearly an addition to one already in existence. It is spoken of in a deed of 1790 to Justus Seelye.

In 1872 Mrs. Clarissa Seymour Welch sold to the town over three acres to be used as an addition to Milton yard, excepting the family burial place therein.

This ground lies nearly a mile west of the village of Milton, in a sheltered valley, and is now enclosed by a substantial wall of quarried stone.

MORRIS

The town of Morris was originally the parish or society of South Farms in Litchfield, and it was not until 1859 that its extensive area was incorporated into a separate town. This is the reason why the two burying grounds of Morris are included in this book.

1 Litchfield Town Records 81.

"At a Meeting of the Inhabitants of the Town of Litchfield according to Law Decm^r 8^h A D 1747 voted Liberty to the Inhabitants in the South Farms to have one quarter of an Acre of Land laid out by any two of the Select Men where they shall judge convenient for the use of a Burying Place for the Inhabitants of the Town."

No record has been found that the two selectmen ever carried this out, but four miles south of Litchfield, on the road to the meeting house in Morris lies this ancient burying ground on a hillside sloping to the south. The oldest stones are very near the road. Within a hundred years enlargements have brought the area of this burial place to three acres, and it has been well cared for.

Sad is the home to those who live
 When earthly props are rent away
 But guided by the light of truth
 Faith points us to a brighter day
 Yes, thanks to God, the eye of faith.
 Sees far beyond this mournful scene
 Where mortal forms so loved on earth
 Now flourish in immortal green.
 Then let us dry all useless tears
 Since this blest hope inspires our breast
 That he who sleeps beneath this mound
 Has entered on the promised rest.

FOOTVILLE

Under date of December fifteenth, 1776, the following town vote in reference to the yard at Footville or West Morris appears upon the records at Litchfield.

"Upon the Petition of sundry of the Inhabitants of the Southwest Part of Litchfield voted that the Select Men be empowered to buy of Mr. Thomas Waugh Half an acre of Land about Twenty Rods South of Joseph Waugh's Dwelling House for the Sum of Thirty Shillings for the Purpose of a public Burying Place for the Town of Litchfield And in Case said Thomas Waugh doth give & execute a Deed of said Half Acre of Land to the Inhabitants of the Town for the use of a public Burying Yard then said Thomas Waugh his Heirs & Assigns shall have good Right foreuer to inclose said Burying Yard and use it for Pasturing provided he or they shall keep & maintain convenient Bars for the People to pass and repass for the Purpose of burying their dead."

This bit of ground, lying some two miles west of Morris Meeting House, and southwest of Bantam Lake, was conveyed to the town nearly ten years afterward on November thirteenth, 1786. Since then another half acre has been added.

Friend after friend departs,
Who hath not lost a friend?
There is no union here of hearts
But it will have an end.

Howard L. | only son of | Edward A. & Lucy E. Smith |
died | Feb 18, 1854 | aged 4 years | & 6 mo |

Sleep on, sweet child, the time is short
The grave can't hold thee long
Thou soon will rise in heavenly guise
And join the bloodwashed throng

Burial Ground of the Beach Family

This ground is on a slight eminence in a meadow nearly three miles northwest of the borough of Litchfield, adjacent to the road called for many years, "Beach Street," after the family who lived in the neighborhood and were buried here.

Most of the stones have been removed, according to the best information which can be gotten.

SOLDIERS' LOT, WEST CEMETERY

The Town of Litchfield several years ago voted to give a section of the West Cemetery for the burial of soldiers not having lots of their own, and in 1894 the citizens dedicated thereon a small monument, "IN MEMORIAM."

A few veterans have from time to time been interred on the lot, and in 1903 the State erected twenty-three headstones on it for those accredited to Litchfield quota in the Rebellion, who were buried in unknown graves on Southern soil.

The illustration shows this lot and the stones erected thereon.

MEMORANDA

SOLDIERS' MONUMENTS

A beautiful soldier's monument, erected by the citizens of Litchfield, stands in the Center Park, of Litchfield. It is of white marble and of elegant design. Another soldier's monument is standing in the center of Northfield. It is of brown sandstone, and was erected by the citizens of Northfield directly after the end of the War of the Rebellion, and is said to have been the first of the soldier's monuments erected in the country.

The inscriptions appear in other parts of this book.

CARE OF CEMETERIES

In Litchfield an association has been formed to care for the West Cemetery. By payment of a small annual due the subscriber can have his lot and monument taken care of.

The East Cemetery is of two divisions, the old part, which is taken care of by the town, if at all, and the northern part, which belongs to the Litchfield Cemetery Association, and is taken care of by it at a charge of two dollars per year to the lot owners.

The other yards in the town are uncared for.

In Morris an association has been lately formed to restore and care for the East Yard there. Generous subscriptions have been given, and the work has been well begun.

All of the cemeteries, in both Litchfield and Morris, are in a pretty respectable condition.

REVOLUTIONARY DEAD

In the southeast corner of the East Cemetery at Litchfield are the remains of a large number of Revolutionary heroes. They were buried here, in trenches side by side without coffins—and there is nothing to mark their resting places.

ACADIANS

In the Morris Cemetery are also the unmarked and unknown graves of many of the Acadian prisoners who were quartered upon Litchfield at the close of that war—1755.

(Authority, traditions of old people, and grave diggers' statements).

THE TOWN POOR

The present farm of L. and S. Whittlesey, on the east side of Bantam Lake, in Morris, was for a long period the Town Farm of Litchfield, where it kept its poor. There was an inclosure on it in which were interred fifty-one of the inmates. There are a number of interments on the present Litchfield Town Farm with no inscriptions. Until recently no record whatever was made of deaths of the Town poor.
